

COTTON FARMERS URGED TO CURTAIL THEIR CROPS

Senate Passes Resolution as Step Toward Reduced Acreage in North Carolina.

WORKMEN'S BILL PRESENTED

Organizations of Railway Employees Are Expected to Make Hard Fight Against Its Passage—Division of Rural Credits Proposed.

RALEIGH, N. C., February 1.—Cotton farmers throughout the State are urged to curtail their crop 50 per cent this year, and officials of other cotton States are urged to recommend similar action in their States, by a resolution passed today by the North Carolina State Senate.

An identical resolution was passed by the House last week. Representative Nettles, of Buncombe, introduced in the House today a workmen's compensation bill, which was referred to the committee on Proprietary and Grievances, and set for a hearing on Wednesday, February 10. Mr. Riddick, of Asheville, president of the North Carolina Manufacturers' Association, and President Otto Jarrett, of Asheville, of the North Carolina Federation of Labor, will be here to advocate the bill. It is said that the principal fight against the bill will be made by the representatives of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and other railway employees' organizations, who are pledged to oppose this workmen's compensation legislation to the utmost.

Representative Brummett, in the House, and Senator McRae, in the Senate, introduced bills to provide a division of rural credits in the State Department of Agriculture, a State Farmington measure. The bills provide that the superintendent or director of the division shall devote his time to assisting the farmers in taking advantage of the system as rapidly as it can be extended.

A bill, by Senator Ward, would allow each Supreme Court judge $500 instead of $400 annually for stenographic assistance.

A joint resolution from the House passed the Senate, extending greetings to Virginia, Tennessee, Arkansas, Texas, New Mexico, California and Arizona on the completion of the national highway from the Carolina coast across the continent, and urging that Federal authorities aid in every way possible in its adequate maintenance.

WASHINGTON, February 1.—Captain Joseph Oman, of the cruiser North Carolina, which has been observing events in the Eastern Mediterranean, reports by mail to the Navy Department today that there is no justification for the alarming and sensational reports in European and American papers as to the conditions of foreigners on the Syrian coast.

FISHERMAN'S LUCK

HIS ASHES MINGLE WITH VIRGINIA SOIL

Dying Request of Lucien Carr, of Boston, Is Carried Out—Had Won Fame as Historian.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
WINCHESTER, Va., January 21.—The ashes of Lucien Carr, a prominent resident of Cambridge, Mass., whose death from pneumonia occurred at his home on January 27, at the age of thirty-eight years, were interred this afternoon in Mount Hebron Cemetery, the brief burial service being conducted by Rev. J. H. Lacy, D. D., pastor of the Presbyterian Church in Winchester. The body was incinerated last week in Boston in accordance with a request made by Mr. Carr shortly before his death. His ashes were buried at the side of the grave containing the ashes of his friend, John Carr, Jr., who died in a Boston hospital about a year ago.

Although a Westerner by birth and a Northerner by adoption, Mr. Carr had a great love for the people of this State, having spent much of his time here in recent years after his son located and built a magnificent home in the Western suburbs of Winchester. One of the last requests of Mr. Carr was that his ashes be permitted to mingle with Virginia soil. Mr. Carr belonged to one of the pioneer families of Missouri, and was born at Troy, that State, December 15, 1875. He received his A. B. degree from the University of St. Louis in 1896, and later was given his A. M. degree by that institution. In 1897, after many years of research and literary work in the West, he became assistant curator of the Peabody Museum of Archaeology and Ethnology at Harvard College, and continued as such until 1904. As a writer on scientific matters, he was the author of "The Mounds of the Mississippi Valley, Historically Considered"; "Missouri in Brief History"; and "Prehistoric Remains of Kentucky," which was written in collaboration with Professor N. S. Shaler, of the University of "Valuable Indian Articles" and on other subjects of educational and historic interest. Since his retirement as assistant curator he had devoted his time to writing on scientific subjects. He was a member of numerous important societies, including the Massachusetts Historical Society, American Antiquarian Society and American Academy of Arts and Sciences, and was a member of the Anthropological Society of Washington, D. C., that of Paris, the one in London and the society in Moscow.

Mr. Carr was married almost sixty years ago in Missouri to Miss Cornelia L. Crow, of St. Louis, but who was a native of Kentucky. She was the daughter of Wayman Crow. They lived in St. Louis following their marriage until after the Civil War, then came East, and for about forty-five years Cambridge had been their home. Mr. Carr is survived by his widow and a daughter, Mrs. Charles Miner Thompson, of Cambridge.

J. E. Harrell Prefers Death to Publicly Incurred by His Domestic Difficulties—Chief of Police Makes His Report for January.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

PETERSBURG, Va., February 1.—J. E. Harrell, a young married man, was found dead in bed at his home on Main Street, Petersburg, this morning, from the effects of carbolic acid, swallowed some time during the night. It is believed that death occurred several hours before the body was discovered. Domestic trouble is said to have been the cause of the act, disagreements between his wife and himself, which resulted in a complaint against him by his wife. The case was to have come before the police justice for hearing this morning. The matter so weighed on his mind that he seems to have preferred death to court publicity. He is represented to have been a man of good character. It is not known when the acid was taken, and nothing was known of it until the body was found. He is survived by his wife, five brothers and a sister.

Greatest of All Human Blessings

The most wonderful thing in the world is love expressed in the helpless infant. And among those aids and comforts for expectant mothers is the well-known "Mother's Friend."

This is an external application to enable the abdomen muscles to become more pliant, to expand naturally without undue pain from the strain upon cords and ligaments.

Applied as directed upon those muscles involved it soothes the fine network of nerves with which all the muscles are supplied. Thus a great share of the pain so much dreaded may be avoided and the period of expectancy passed in comfort.

There is no question but what such relief has a marked influence upon the general health of the mother.

In a little book sent by mail much useful information is given to inexperienced mothers. It tells how to use "Mother's Friend" and how to avoid caking breasts. It has been prepared in our laboratory for over forty years and is known favorably to most druggists everywhere. Get a bottle to-day and write for book to Trade-Label Regulator Co., 309 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. Be sure to ask for and see that you get "Mother's Friend."

UNIFORMITY OF ENTRANCE

Steps Taken to Prepare List of Accredited High Schools—General Debate as to Units to Be Allowed in Granting College Degrees.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

An association of Virginia colleges was organized yesterday morning at a conference of representatives of the State institutions of learning. Officers of the association were elected as follows: President, Henry Lewis Smith, of Washington and Lee University; Dean H. D. Campbell, of Washington and Lee; Dean Theo P. Campbell, of the Virginia Polytechnic Institute; President W. A. Webb, of Randolph-Macon College for Women; President R. E. Blackwell, of Randolph-Macon College for Men; Dean J. F. Metcalf, of Richmond College; Dean Keller, of Westhampton College; President Lyon G. Tyler and Professor James Southall Wilson, of the College of William and Mary; Dr. Macaulay, of the Medical College of Virginia; Professor L. D. Long, of the University of Virginia; President C. C. Weaver, of Eastern College; President C. G. Ewing, of Henry College, and General E. W. Nichols, of the Virginia Military Institute.

DISCUSS UNIFORMITY OF ENTRANCE REQUIREMENTS

Professor Manly acted as chairman and Professor Wilson as secretary at the meeting. Telegrams explaining the absence of President Graham, of Hampden-Sydney, and President Morehead, of Roanoke College, were read.

The chief subject of discussion was the method of securing uniformity in college entrance and accrediting. Steps were taken looking toward the adoption of a list of accredited high schools for the State, and of a standard blank for certification to college to be used by all institutions. It was the sense of the conference that any subject taught in the college courses of the State after the fourteen units of entrance are fully met, should be allowed to count toward a college degree.

Many topics of vital interest to the colleges furnished material for spirited debate, leading to general agreement as to the principles involved without the formality of resolutions.

Interested visitors to the conference, some of whom contributed materially to the results of the meeting, were Secretary E. R. Chesterman and E. Worrell, of the State Department of Education; Mrs. B. B. Munford, president of the Co-Operative Education Association, and Superintendent Frank T. West, of the State Board of Education. The new association will hold annual meetings at the call of its officers. It is expected that its founders to play an important part in the educational development of the State.
